

The lines that I studied as a printmaker have now threaded their way into my jewelry and sculpture. My work is influenced by the towering lines of the skyscrapers that I live amongst as well as the organic patterns that emerge in the natural world.